Why codes matter

01 Business alignment

Each code is connected to the accountable business and provides transparency for our stakeholders

02 Deloitte's Financial Health

The Firm is driving greater focus on profitability to accelerate the pace and scale of investment in innovation

03 Utilization visibility

Provides leadership a view into capacity and demand as well as build business cases for appropriate resourcing

04 Compliance with Deloitte T&E policies

Deloitte must be accountable to its clients and regulators on how it tracks time and expense

G&P Pursuit Management T&E

Key points of emphasis

Time

Client-specific PRD WBSs

- The client team should provide the appropriate client-specific PRD WBS through the pursuit intake process and can be found in Workfront --ask another member of the pursuit team or the client team for WBS if it is not in Workfront
- Use the DTE search method only when the client team instructs PM professionals to use a SVCS client/engagement PRD WBS
- Use Industry LP codes only when the client team instructs PM professionals to use a SVCS client/engagement PRD WBS and there is no SVCS client-specific PRD WBS available
- No change to Deloitte Private client/engagement PRD WBSs

When changes to saved timesheets are ok

- Changes to a previously saved weekly timesheet can me made anytime but now require a DTE reason code
- Timesheets now lock for revisions after 12 months

Work-from-home tax jurisdiction guidance

- If your assigned office is in Nebraska, New York or New Jersey, you must report all hours worked from home to your assigned office location (not your home address)
- Work-from-home hours otherwise should be assigned to the tax jurisdiction where your residence is located

Expense

Un-reimbursable work expenses

- ☒ Computer accessories purchased for home office
- ☒ Commuting costs from home to your Primary Work Location are not reimbursable
- ☒ Internet and other home office expenses, except where mandated by state law, are not reimbursable

Do not wait to submit expenses

- Any expenses 30 days or older now require pre-approval of WBS/cost center owner[1]
- Any expenses 180 days or older now require pre-approval of G&P COO[1]

Adhere to tightened travel guidance

- Lowest available airfare should be the primary consideration when booking airfare – and made on preferred airlines only
- Domestic Frequent Traveler status now requires 15 or more round-trip flights in the last 24 months

When to submit a receipt for well-being subsidy

- For well-being subsidy expenses that are equal to or more than $75 a receipt is now required to be submitted

For more guidance on specific Deloitte policies, go to: Administrative Policies (APRs) (deloitte.com)

[1]Pre-approval should be in email form and retained as a record for two years in the event of an expense compliance audit

FAQs regarding client/engagement PRD WBSs

Questions from Pursuit Management professionals…

Why are we changing what client/engagement PRD WBSs we use? As part of Deloitte's on-going Financial Health initiative, Firm leadership is driving greater focus on revenue and profitability, starting at the client level. All Deloitte professionals should charge their client-specific time and expense to a business-specific client/engagement PRD WBS, unless otherwise instructed by a client team.

What type of client/engagement PRD WBS should we use whenever possible? A business-specific client/engagement PRD WBS provided by the client team.

How do I know if the client code is business-specific or SVCS-specific? Use the code validation method found in Appendix (b) in the G&P Pursuit Management T&E Guide.

Is it ok to just use a SVCS client code or an industry code? No, as per the new Deloitte policies effective FY22, all Deloitte professionals should charge client-specific time and expense to a business-specific client/engagement PRD WBS, unless otherwise instructed by a client team.

What do I do if a Partner or a member of the client team instructs me to remove my time from a business-specific client/engagement PRD WBS? If you are instructed to remove your time and/or expense from a business specific client/engagement PRD WBS, you should remove the time and/or expense. The client team determines whether Enabling Area professionals charge their time to a business-specific client/engagement PRD WBS.

What do I do if I have to change client time that is more 8 weeks old? Contact the Time Compliance Team to seek guidance and receive approval to change client team after eight weeks.

Do I charge time AND expense to the client/engagement PRD WBS? Yes, unless specifically instructed not to charge expense to the client/engagement PRD WBS, G&P Pursuit Management professionals should charge their time and expense related to work on a client pursuit to the provided client/engagement PRD WBS.

Should I provide a client/engagement PRD WBS to ServiceNOW or charge an invoice to a client/engagement PRD WBS? No, consult with John Clough regarding how to charge ServiceNOW expenses and any invoices.

Questions from client team members…

What's different about this vs. the way you've always charged your time?
As per PRIMED guidance issued in May 2021 and guidance from Engagement Financial Advisor leadership, all Deloitte professionals are instructed to charge pursuit time and expense to business-specific client/engagement PRD WBSs when working on a business-specific client pursuit, at the discretion of the client team. Previously, Deloitte professionals resident in the SVCS entity (enabling areas) were only permitted to charge client PRD WBSs located in the SVCS entity.

Will I now be actually charged for your time or is this just a time allocation exercise? If the former, how much is this going to cost? Time and expense charged by G&P Pursuit Management professionals to business-specific client/engagement PRD WBSs will register hours and a theoretical cost against the WBS. There is no transfer of cost at the P&L level. The theoretical cost will be based on internal hourly bill rates for PRD time and will only include time associated with working on the specific pursuit. The Engagement Financial Advisor for your specific account can provide the further guidance on this question.

Can you split your time between my WBS code and some industry/offering code, so it doesn't all go against my RC? As per PRIMED guidance issued in May 2021 and guidance from Engagement Financial Advisor leadership, all Deloitte professionals are instructed to charge pursuit time and expense to business-specific client/engagement PRD WBSs when working on a business-specific client pursuit, at the discretion of the client team. G&P Pursuit Management professionals will always follow the instructions from the client team on what WBSs to charge their time.

We want our designer to create an innovative experience—how many hours will that take? If we "contract" for a certain number of hours, what happens if your team goes beyond that? As per PRIMED guidance issued in May 2021 and guidance from Engagement Financial Advisor leadership, all Deloitte professionals are instructed to charge pursuit time and expense to business-specific client/engagement PRD WBSs when working on a business-specific client pursuit, at the discretion of the client team. G&P Pursuit Management professionals will always follow the instructions from the client team on what WBSs to charge their time.

Appendix (a): Best practices and reference information

Best practices and reminders

- Record time in 15-30 minute increments when possible
- Keep track of time during the week: use a spreadsheet, OneNote, Outlook calendar. All hours worked should be inputted into DTE. If needed, allocate time each day to time and expenses tracker or set aside time on Friday.
- Utilize the Deloitte DTE App for easy, convenient time entry
- PM/Designers should use the same WBS for charging time and expenses on each pursuit. There may be situations in which there is an explicit agreement for time and/or expense to be billed to a separate code. This may occur also for a non-pursuit project. In these cases, follow the direction provided by your coach or team leader.
- Generally, the tax jurisdiction should always be where you are located when work is being performed. As it regards traveling:
  - While traveling to destination: home jurisdiction
  - After arrival/working at destination: jurisdiction where located
  - While traveling to home: home jurisdiction
- Always use Deloitte Trips for work-related travel arrangements and choose preferred providers.
- All Personnel who incur travel or other business-related expenses in connection with the U.S.-based Firms' business, must use their corporate charge card for all travel and other business-related expenses, wherever it is accepted.
